Power to dispense with personal attendance of accused

86. (1) Whenever a magistrates' court issues a summons in respect of any offence other than a felony, it may if it sees reason to do so, and shall when the offence with which the accused is charged is punishable only by fine or by imprisonment not exceeding 3 months or by both such fine and imprisonment, dispense with the personal attendance of the accused, provided that he pleads guilty in writing or appears by an advocate.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1) the magistrates' court inquiring into or trying any case may in its discretion, at any subsequent stage of the proceedings, direct the personal attendance of the accused and if necessary, enforce such attendance in the manner hereinafter provided:

Provided that no warrant shall be issued in such case unless a complaint or charge has been made upon oath.

(3) If a magistrates' court imposes a fine on an accused person whose personal attendance has been dispensed with under this section, and such fine is not paid within the time prescribed for such payment, the magistrates' court may forthwith issue a summons calling upon such accused person to show cause why he should not be committed to prison for such term as the magistrates' court may then prescribe; and if such accused person does not attend upon the return of such summons the magistrates' court may forthwith issue a warrant and commit such person to prison for such term as the magistrates' court may then fix.

(4) If, in any case in which under this section the attendance of an accused person is dispensed with, previous convictions are alleged against such person and are not admitted in writing or through such person's advocate, the magistrates' court may adjourn the proceedings and direct the personal attendance of the accused, and, if necessary enforce such attendance in the manner hereinafter provided.

(5) Whenever the attendance of an accused person has been so dispensed with and his attendance is subsequently required, the cost of any adjournment for such purpose shall be borne in any event by the accused.

Warrant after issue of summons

87. Notwithstanding the issue of a summons, a warrant may be issued at any time before or after the time appointed in the summons for the appearance of the accused, but no such warrant shall be issued before the time appointed in the summons for the appearance of the accused unless a complaint has been made upon oath.

Summons disobeyed

88. If the accused does not appear at the time and place appointed in and by the summons, and his personal attendance has not been dispensed with under section 86, the court may issue a warrant to apprehend him and cause him to be brought before such court.

Form, contents and duration of warrant of arrest

89. (1) Every warrant of arrest shall be under the hand of the judge or magistrate issuing the same.

(2) Every warrant shall state shortly the offence with which the person against whom it is issued is charged and shall name or otherwise describe such person, and it shall order the person or persons to whom it is directed to apprehend the person against whom it is issued and bring him before the court issuing the warrant or before some other court having jurisdiction in the case to answer to the charge therein mentioned and to be further dealt with according to law.

(2) The endorsement shall state-

(2) Such magistrate, shall, if the person arrested appears to be the person intended by the court which issued the warrant, direct his removal in custody to such court:

(3) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a police officer from taking security under section 90.

Irregularities in warrant

96. Any irregularity or defect in the substance or form of a warrant and any variance between it and the written complaint or information or between either and the evidence produced on the part of the prosecution at any inquiry or trial shall not affect the validity of any proceedings at or subsequent to the hearing of the case but if any such variance appears to the court to be such that the accused has been thereby deceived or misled, such court may at the request of the accused adjourn the hearing of the case to some future date and in the meantime remand the accused or admit him to bail.

Power to take bond for appearance

97. Where any person for whose appearance or arrest the court is empowered to issue a summons or warrant is present in such court, the court may require such person to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for his appearance in such court.

109. When any person is required by any court or police officer to enter into a recognisance, with or without sureties, such court or police officer may, except in the case of a recognisance for good behaviour, permit him to deposit a sum of money to such amount as the court or police officer may fix in lieu of executing such a recognisance.

113. If it is made to appear to any court, by information on oath, that any person bound by recognisance is about to leave the Gilbert Islands, the court may cause him to be arrested and

(2) If sufficient cause is not shown and the penalty is not paid, the court may proceed to recover the same by issuing a warrant for the attachment and sale of the movable property belonging to such person, or his estate if he is dead.

(3) Such warrant may be executed within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the court which issued it; and it shall authorise the attachment and sale of the movable property belonging to such person without such limits, when endorsed by any magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such property is found.

(5) The court may, at its discretion, remit any portion of the penalty mentioned and enforce payment in part only.

(6) When any person who has furnished security is convicted of an offence the commission of which constitutes a breach of the conditions of his recognisance, a certified copy of the judgment of the court by which he was convicted of such offence may be used as evidence in proceedings under this section against his surety or sureties, and, if such certified copy is so used, the court shall presume that such offence was committed by him unless the contrary is proved.

(7) Where a sum of money has been deposited in lieu of executing a bond conditioned for the appearance of a person before a court, such court, if such sum of money appears to the court to be forfeited, may make an order accordingly:

(3) Nothing herein contained shall affect the liability of any such person to any other punishment or proceeding for refusing or neglecting to do what is so required of him, or shall prevent the court from disposing of the case in the meantime according to any other sufficient evidence taken before it.

Cases when wife or husband may be called without the consent of the accused

136. In any inquiry or trial the wife or husband of the person charged shall be a competent witness for the prosecution or defence without the consent of such person-

(a) in any case where the wife or husband of a person charged may, under any law in force for the time being, be called as a witness without the consent of such person;

Issues of commission for examination of witness

137. (1) Whenever in the course of any proceeding under this Code the High Court or a magistrates' court, is satisfied that the examination of a witness is necessary for the ends of justice, and that the attendance of such witness cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, the High Court or magistrates' court may with the consent of the parties issue a commission to any magistrate, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such witness resides, to take the evidence of such witness.

(2) The magistrate to whom the commission is issued shall proceed to the place where the witness is or shall summon the witness before him, and shall take down his evidence in the same manner, and may for this purpose exercise the same powers, as in the case of a trial.

Parties may examine witnesses

138. (1) The parties to any proceeding under this Code in which a commission is issued may respectively forward any interrogatories in writing which the court directing the commission may think relevant to the issue, and the magistrate to whom the commission is directed shall examine the witness upon such interrogatories.

(2) Any such party may appear before such magistrate by advocate, or, if not in custody, in person, and may examine, cross-examine, and re-examine (as the case may be) the said witness.

Return of commission

139. (1) After any commission issued under section 137 has been duly executed it shall be returned, together with the deposition of the witness examined thereunder, to the High Court or to the magistrates' court (as the case may be), and the commission, the return thereto, and the deposition shall be open at all reasonable times to inspection of the parties, and may, subject to all just exceptions, be read in evidence in the case by either party, and shall form part of the record.

(2) Any deposition so taken may also be received in evidence at any subsequent stage of the case before another court.

Adjournment of inquiry or trial

140. In every case in which a commission is issued under section 137 the proceedings may be adjourned for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

Competency of accused and husband or wife as witnesses in criminal cases

141. Every person charged with an offence and the wife or husband, as the case may be, of the person so charged shall be a competent witness for the defence at every stage of the proceedings, whether the person so charged is charged solely or jointly with any other person:

Provided-

(a) a person so charged shall not be called as a witness in pursuance of this section except upon his own application;

(b) the failure of any person charged with an offence, or of the wife or husband, as the case may be, of the person so charged, to give evidence shall not be made the subject of any comment by the prosecution;

(c) the wife or husband of the person charged shall not, save as hereinbefore mentioned, be called as a witness except upon the application of the person so charged;

(d) nothing in this section shall make a husband compellable to disclose any communication made to him by his wife during the marriage, or a wife compellable to disclose any communication made to her by her husband during the marriage;

(e) a person charged and being a witness in pursuance of this section may be asked any question in cross-examination notwithstanding that it would tend to criminate him as to the offence charged;

(f) a person charged and called as a witness in pursuance of this section shall not be asked, and if asked shall not be required to answer, any question tending to show that he has committed or been convicted of or been charged with any offence other than that wherewith he is then charged, or is of bad character, unless-

(i) the proof that he has committed or been convicted of such other offence is admissible evidence to show that he is guilty of the offence wherewith he is then charged; or

(ii) he has personally or by his advocate asked questions of the witness for the prosecution with a view to establishing his own good character, or has given evidence of his own good character, or the nature or conduct of the defence is such as to involve imputations on the character of the complainant or the witnesses for the prosecution; or

(iii) he has given evidence against any other person charged with the same offence;

(g) every person called as a witness in pursuance of this section shall, unless otherwise ordered by the court, give his evidence from the witness box or other place from which the other witnesses have given their evidence; and

(h) nothing in this section shall affect the provisions of section 213 or any right of the person charged to make a statement without being sworn.

Procedure where person charged is the only witness called

142. Where the only witness to the facts of the case called by the defence is the person charged, he shall be called as a witness immediately after the close of the evidence for the prosecution.

Right of reply

143. In cases where the right of reply depends upon the question whether evidence has been called for the defence, the fact that the person charged has been called as a witness shall not of itself confer on the prosecution the right of reply.

Inquiry by court as to state of accused's mind

144. (1) When in the course of a trial or preliminary investigation the court has reason to believe that the accused is of unsound mind so that he is incapable of making his defence, it shall inquire into the fact of such unsoundness.

(2) If the court is of the opinion that the accused is of unsound mind so that he is incapable of making his defence, it shall postpone further proceedings in the case.

(3) If the case is one in which bail may be taken, the court may release the accused person on sufficient security being given that he will be properly taken care of and prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, and for his appearance before the court or such officer as the court may appoint in that behalf.

(4) If the case is one in which bail may not be taken, or if sufficient security is not given, the court shall report the case to the Governor, who, if satisfied by medical certificate, may order the accused to be confined in a mental health wing or other suitable place of custody, and the court shall issue a warrant in accordance with such order.

Defence of unsoundness of mind at preliminary investigation

145. When the accused person appears to be of sound mind at the time of a preliminary investigation, the court, notwithstanding that it is alleged that, at the time when the act was committed in respect of which the accused person is charged, he was by reason of some disease of mind labouring under a defect of reason as to be incapable of knowing the nature and quality of the act or, if he did know it, that he did not know that it was contrary to law, shall proceed with the case and, if the accused person ought, in the opinion of the court, to be committed for trial on information, the court shall so commit him.

Defence of unsoundness of mind on trial

146. (1) Where any act or omission is charged against any person as an offence, and it is given in evidence on the trial of such person for that offence that at the time when the act was done or omission made he was by reason of a disease of mind labouring under such defect of reason as to be incapable of knowing the nature and quality of the act, or, if he did know it that he did not know it was contrary to law, then if it appears to the court before which such person is tried that he did the act or made the omission charged but was incapable as aforesaid at the time when he did or made the same, the court shall make a special finding to the effect that the accused was guilty of the act or omission charged but was insane when he did the act or made the omission.

(2) When such special finding is made the court shall report the case for the order of the Governor and shall meanwhile order the accused to be kept in custody as a criminal lunatic in such place and in such manner as the court shall direct.

(3) The Governor may order such person to be confined in a mental health wing, prison or other suitable place of safe custody.

Resumption of trial or investigation

147. Whenever any preliminary investigation or trial is postponed the court may at any time resume the preliminary investigation or trial and require the accused to appear or be brought before such court, when, if the court considers him capable of making his defence, the preliminary investigation or trial shall proceed, but if the court considers the accused to be still incapable of making his defence, it shall act as if the accused were brought before it for the first time.

Certificate of medical officer in charge of mental health wing as to sanity to be evidence

148. If a person is confined in a mental health wing under the provisions of this Code and the medical officer in charge of such wing certifies that the accused person is capable of making his defence, such accused shall be taken before the court at such time as the court appoints to be dealt with according to law, and the certificate of such medical officer shall be receivable in evidence.

Mode of delivering judgment

149. (1) The judgment in every trial in any criminal court in the exercise of its original jurisdiction shall be pronounced, or the substance of such judgment shall be explained, in open court either immediately after the termination of the trial or at some subsequent time of which notice shall be given to the parties and their advocates, if any:

Provided that the whole judgment shall be read out by the presiding judge or magistrate if he is requested so to do either by the prosecution or the defence.

(2) The accused person shall, if in custody, be required by the court to attend, or hear judgment delivered, except where the court has proceeded to the determination of the case in the absence of the accused under section 186, or where his personal attendance during the trial has been dispensed with and the sentence is one of fine only, or he is acquitted.

(3) No judgment delivered by any court shall be deemed to be invalid by reason only of the absence of any party or his advocate on the day or from the place notified for the delivery thereof, or of any omission to serve, or defect in serving, on the parties or their advocates, or any of them, the notice of such day and place.

Contents of judgment

150. (1) Every such judgment shall, except as otherwise expressly provided by this Code, be written by the presiding officer of the court in the language of the court, and shall contain the point or points for determination, the decision thereon and the reason for the decision, and shall be dated and signed by the presiding officer in open court at the time of pronouncing it:

Provided that where the accused person has admitted the truth of the charge and has been convicted, it shall be a sufficient compliance with the provisions of this subsection if the judgment contains only the finding and sentence or other final order and is signed and dated by the presiding officer at the time of pronouncing it.

(2) In the case of a conviction the judgment shall specify the offence of which, and the section of the law under which, the accused person is convicted, and the punishment to which he is sentenced.

(3) In the case of an acquittal the judgment shall state the offence of which the accused person is acquitted and shall direct that he be set at liberty.

Copy of judgment to be given to accused on application

151. On the application of the accused person a copy of the judgment, or, when he so desires, a translation in his own language, if practicable, shall be given to him without delay; and such copy shall be given free of cost.

Costs against accused or against a private prosecutor

152. (1) It shall be lawful for a judge or a magistrates' court to order any person convicted before him or it of an offence to pay to a private prosecutor such reasonable cost as to such judge or magistrates' court may see fit, in addition to any other penalty imposed:

Provided that such costs shall not exceed $100 in the case of the High Court or $50 in the case of a magistrates' court.

(2) It shall be lawful for a judge or magistrates' court who acquits or discharges a person accused of an offence, if the prosecution for such offence was originally instituted on a summons or warrant issued on the application of a private prosecutor, to order such private prosecutor to pay to the accused such reasonable costs as to such judge or magistrates' court may seem fit:

Provided that such cost shall not exceed $100 in the case of an acquittal or discharge by the High Court or $50 in the case of an acquittal or discharge by a magistrates' court:

Provided further no such order shall be made if the judge or magistrates' court considers that the private prosecutor had reasonable grounds for making his complaint.

(3) On the restitution of any stolen property if it appears to the court by the evidence that the offender has sold the stolen property to any person, that such person has had no knowledge that the same was stolen, and that any moneys have been taken from the offender on his apprehension, the court may, on the application of such purchaser, order that out of such moneys a sum, not exceeding the amount of the proceeds of such sale, be delivered to the said purchaser.

(4) The operation of any order under this section shall (unless the court-before which the conviction takes place direct to the contrary in any case in which the title to the property is not in dispute) be suspended-

190. (1) If at the time or place to which the hearing or further hearing is adjourned, the accused person does not appear before the court which has made the order of adjournment, such court may, unless the accused person is charged with felony, proceed with the hearing or further hearing as if the accused were present, and if the complainant does not appear the court may dismiss the charge with or without costs as the court shall think fit.

(2) If the accused person who has not appeared as aforesaid is charged with felony, or if the court, in its discretion, refrains from convicting the accused in his absence, the court shall issue a warrant for the apprehension of the accused person and cause him to be brought before the court.

Conviction in absence of accused may be set aside

191. If the court convicts the accused person in his absence, it may set aside such conviction upon being satisfied that his absence was from causes over which he had no control, and that he had a probable defence on the merits.

Commencement of sentence passed in absence of accused

192. Any sentence passed under section 186 or 190 shall be deemed to commence from the date of apprehension, and the person effecting such apprehension shall endorse the date thereof on the back of the warrant of commitment.

Accused to be called upon to plead

193. (1) The substance of the charge or complaint shall be stated to the accused person by the court, and he shall be asked whether he admits or denies the truth of the charge.

(2) If the accused person admits the truth of the charge, his admission shall be recorded as nearly as possible in the words used by him, and the court shall convict him and pass sentence upon or make an order against him, unless there shall appear to it sufficient cause to the contrary.

(3) If the accused person does not admit the truth of the charge, the court shall proceed to hear the case as hereinafter provided.

(4) If the accused person refuses to plead, the court shall order a plea of "not guilty" to be entered for him.

(5) When a corporation is charged with any offence before a magistrates' court, the corporation may enter in writing by its representative a plea of "guilty" or "not guilty"; and if either the corporation does not appear by representative or, though it does so appear, fails to enter any plea, the court shall cause a plea of "not guilty" to be entered and the trial shall proceed as though the corporation had duly entered a plea of "not guilty".

(6) Where a charge against a corporation is one which may, with the consent of the accused, be tried by a magistrates' court, and the corporation does not appear by representative or, if it does so appear, consents that the offence should be dealt with, the magistrates' court may proceed to try such charge summarily in accordance with the provisions of this Code; and a representative for the purposes of this section need not be appointed under the seal of the corporation, and a statement in writing purporting to be signed by a managing director of the corporation, or by any person (by whatever name called) having or being one of the persons having the management of the affairs of the corporation, to the effect that the person named in the statement has been appointed as the representative of the corporation for the purposes of this section shall be admissible without further proof as prima facie evidence that that person has been so appointed.

Procedure on plea of not guilty

194. (1) If the accused person does not admit the truth of the charge, the court shall proceed to hear the witnesses for the prosecution and other evidence (if any).

(2) The accused person or the advocate or other person defending him may put questions to each witness produced against him.

(3) If the accused person is not defended by an advocate or other person, the court shall, at the close of the examination of each witness for the prosecution, ask the accused person whether he wishes to put any questions to that witness and shall record his answer.

Acquittal of accused person where no case to answer

195. If at the close of the evidence in support of the charge it appears to the court that a case is not made out against the accused person sufficiently to require him to make a defence, the court shall dismiss the case and shall forthwith acquit the accused.

The defence

196. (1) At the close of the evidence in support of the charge, if it appears to the court that a case is made out against the accused person sufficiently to require him to make a defence, the court shall again explain the substance of the charge to the accused and shall inform him that he has a right to give evidence on oath from the witness box, and that, if he does so, he will be liable to cross-examination, or to make a statement not on oath from the dock, and shall ask him whether he has any witnesses to examine or other evidence to adduce in his defence, and the court shall then hear the accused and his witnesses and other evidence (if any).

(2) If the accused person states that he has witnesses to call but that they are not present in court, and the court is satisfied that the absence of such witnesses is not due to any fault or neglect of the accused person, and that there is a likelihood that they could, if present, give material evidence on behalf of the accused person, the court may adjourn the trial and issue process, or take other steps, to compel the attendance of such witnesses.

Evidence in reply

197. If the accused person adduces evidence in his defence introducing new matter which the prosecutor could not have foreseen, the court may allow the prosecutor to adduce evidence in reply to rebut the said matter.

Opening and close of case for prosecution and defence

198. (1) Subject to the provisions of subsection (2) the prosecutor shall be entitled to address the court at the commencement of his case, and the accused person or the advocate or other person defending him shall be entitled to address the court at the commencement and in conclusion of his case.

(2) If the accused person, or any one of several accused persons, adduces any evidence, the prosecutor shall, subject to the provisions of section 143, be entitled to reply.

Variance between charge and evidence and amendment of charge

199. (1) Where, at any stage of a trial before the close of the case for the prosecution, it appears to the court that the charge is defective, either in substance or in form, the court may make such order for the alteration of the charge, either by way of amendment of the charge or by the substitution or addition of a new charge, as the court thinks necessary to meet the circumstances of the case:

Provided that where a charge is altered as aforesaid, the court shall thereupon call upon the accused person to plead to the altered charge:

Provided further that where a charge is altered under this subsection the accused may demand that the witnesses or any of them be recalled and give their evidence afresh or be further cross-examined by the accused or his advocate and, in such last-mentioned event, the prosecution shall have the right to re-examine any such witness on matters arising out of such further cross-examination.

(2) Variance between the charge and the evidence adduced in support of it with respect to the day upon which the alleged offence was committed is not material and the charge need not be amended for such variance if it is proved that the proceedings were in fact instituted within the time (if any) limited by law for the institution thereof.

(3) Where an alteration of a charge is made under subsection (1) or there is a variance between the charge and the evidence as described in subsection (2), the court shall, if it is of the opinion that the accused has been thereby misled or deceived, adjourn the trial for such period as may be reasonably necessary.

Negative averments

200. Any exception, exemption, proviso, excuse or qualification, whether it does or does not accompany in the same section the description of the offence in the law creating the offence, and whether or not specified or negated in the charge or complaint, may be proved by the defendant, but no proof in relation thereto shall be required on the part of the complainant.

The decision

201. Subject to section 178 the court having heard both the prosecutor and the accused person and their witnesses and evidence shall either convict the accused and pass sentence upon or make an order against him according to law or shall acquit him or make an order under section 38 of the Penal Code.

Cap 67

Drawing of conviction or order

202. The conviction or order shall, if required, be afterwards drawn up and shall be signed by the court making the conviction or order, or by the clerk or other officer of the court.

Order of acquittal bar to further proceedings

203. The production of a copy of the order of acquittal, certified by the clerk or other officer of the court, shall, without other proof, be a bar to any subsequent information or complaint for the same matter against the same accused person.

Limitation of time for summary trials in certain cases

204. Except where a longer time is specially allowed by law, no offence, the maximum punishment for which does not exceed imprisonment for 6 months or a fine of $100 or both such imprisonment and fine, shall be triable by a magistrates' court, unless the charge or complaint relating to it is laid within 6 months from the time when the matter of such charge or complaint arose.

Power to stop summary trial and hold preliminary inquiry in lieu

205. If before or during the course of a trial before a magistrates' court it appears to the magistrates' court that the case is one which ought to be tried by the High Court or if before the commencement of the trial an application in that behalf is made by a public prosecutor that it shall be so tried, the magistrates' court shall not proceed with the trial but in lieu thereof it shall hold a preliminary inquiry in accordance with the provisions hereinafter contained, and in such case the provisions of section 219 shall not apply.

Special procedure in minor cases

206. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Code and subject to the provisions of any other Ordinance a magistrates' court may, if so requested by the public prosecutor, try any offence, of which the maximum penalty does not exceed a fine of $100 and imprisonment for 6 months, in the manner provided in this section:

Provided that no person may be so tried if in the opinion of the court he is under the age of 16 years.

(2) Upon the trial of an offence to which the provisions of this section apply, the provisions of this Code shall be modified as hereinafter set out.

(3) It shall be sufficient for the purposes of section 180 relating to the manner of recording evidence if the magistrates' court records the names of the witnesses and such notes, if any, on the evidence as it considers desirable.

(4) Where the accused being charged in terms of section 193 makes a statement admitting the truth of the charge, the magistrates' court may, instead of recording the accused's statement in full, enter in the record a plea of guilty.

(5) It shall be a sufficient compliance with the provisions of section 150 relating to the contents of the judgment if the magistrates' court's judgment consists only of the finding and sentence or other final order:

Provided that the magistrates' court may be required by a judge to state in writing the reasons for its decision.

(6) The magistrates' court shall, if requested by the accused or the advocate or other person defending him or by the public prosecutor, record a sufficient note of any question of law and of any relevant evidence relating thereto which may arise during the trial of an offence under the provisions of this section.

(7) The maximum penalty which may be imposed on the trial of an offence under the provisions of this section shall be a fine of $10 or 1 month's imprisonment in default of payment thereof.

PART VII

PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE COMMITMENT OF ACCUSED PERSONS FOR TRIAL BEFORE THE HIGH COURT

Power to commit for trial

207. Any magistrates' court may commit any person for trial to the High Court.

Court to hold inquiry in long or short form

208. Whenever any charge has been brought against any person in respect of an offence not triable by a magistrates' court, or as to which the magistrates' court is of the opinion that it ought to be tried by the High Court or where an application in that behalf has been made by a public prosecutor, either the magistrates' court shall hold an inquiry according to the provisions of section 210 or the magistrates' court may, if it appears appropriate so to do having regard to the circumstances of the case and if application is not made to the contrary by or on behalf of the accused person or by a public prosecutor, commit the person so charged directly for trial to the High Court in accordance with the provisions of section 209.

Conduct of preliminary inquiry in short form

209. (1) A magistrates' court conducting an inquiry in accordance with the provisions of this section shall-

(a) read over and explain to the accused person the charge in respect of which the inquiry is being held, and shall explain to the accused person that he will have an opportunity later on in the inquiry of making a statement if he so desires, and shall further explain to the accused person the purpose of the proceedings, namely to determine whether there is a sufficient case to put him on his trial by the High Court;

(b) the magistrates' court shall then require the prosecutor to tender to the court the written statement of any witness whom it is intended to call in proof of the charge at the trial of the accused person together with any exhibits which it is intended to produce at the said trial and shall read, or cause to be read, every such statement to the accused person.

(2) If, having considered the contents of every statement so tendered the magistrates' court is of the opinion that the facts alleged therein would, if proved in evidence, constitute sufficient grounds for committing the accused person for trial, it shall proceed as provided in sections 213 and 214.

Conduct of preliminary inquiry in long form

210. (1) A magistrates' court conducting an inquiry in accordance with the provisions of this section shall, at the commencement of such inquiry, read over and explain to the accused person the charge in respect of which the inquiry is being held, and shall explain to the accused person that he will have an opportunity later on in the inquiry of making a statement if he so desires, and shall further explain to the accused person the purpose of the proceedings, namely to determine whether there is sufficient evidence to put him on his trial by the High Court, and shall then, in his presence, take down in writing, or cause to be so taken down, the statements on oath of those who know the facts and circumstances of the case, and statements of witnesses so taken down in writing shall be termed depositions.

(2) The accused person or the advocate or other person defending him may put questions to each witness produced against him, and the answer of the witness thereto shall form part of such witness's deposition.

(3) If the accused person is not defended by an advocate or other person, the court shall, at the close of the examination of each witness for the prosecution, ask the accused person whether he wishes to put any questions to that witness.

(4) As the statement of each witness taken down under this section is completed it shall be read over to him in the presence of the accused person and shall, if necessary, be corrected.

(5) If any witness denies the correctness of any part of the statement when the same is read over to him the magistrates' court may, instead of correcting the evidence, make a memorandum thereon of the objection made to it by the witness, and shall add such remarks as it thinks necessary.

(6) If the statement is taken down in a language different from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the statement shall be interpreted to him in a language which he understands.

(7) The deposition of each witness shall then be signed by him or attested by his mark and by the magistrates' court holding the inquiry.

Variance between evidence and charge

211. No objection to a charge, summons or warrant for defect in substance or in form, or for variance between it and the evidence of the prosecution, shall be allowed; but if any variance appears to the court to be such that the accused person has been thereby deceived or misled, the court may, on the application of the accused person, adjourn the inquiry and allow any witness to be recalled and such questions to be put to him as by reason of the terms of the charge may have been omitted.

Remand

212. (1) If, from the absence of witnesses or any other reasonable cause to be recorded in the proceedings, the court considers it necessary or advisable to adjourn the inquiry the court may from time to time by warrant remand the accused for a reasonable time, not exceeding 15 clear days at any one time, to some prison or other place of security; or, if the remand is for not more than 3 days, the court may by word of mouth order the officer or person in whose custody the accused person is, or any other fit officer or person, to continue to keep the accused in his custody, and to bring him up at the time appointed for the commencement or continuance of the inquiry.

(2) During a remand the court may at any time order the accused to be brought before it.

(3) The court may on a remand admit the accused to bail.

Provisions as to taking statement or evidence of accused person

213. (1) If, after consideration of the statements of witnesses tendered to it in accordance with the provisions of section 209(1)(b) or the examination of witnesses called on behalf of the prosecution in accordance with the provisions of section 210(1) as the case may be, the court considers that such statements disclose, or on the evidence as it stands there are sufficient grounds for committing the accused for trial, the magistrates' court shall satisfy itself that the accused understands the charge and shall ask the accused whether he wishes to make a statement in his defence or not and, if he wishes to make a statement, whether he wishes to make it on oath, or not; and the magistrates' court shall also explain to the accused that he is not bound to make a statement and that his statement, if he makes one, will be part of the evidence at the trial.

(2) Everything which the accused person says, either by way of statement or evidence, shall be recorded in full and shall be shown or read over to him, and he shall be at liberty to explain or add to anything contained in the record thereof.

(3) When the whole is made conformable to what he declares is the truth, the record thereof shall be attested by the magistrates' court, which shall certify that such statement or evidence was taken in its presence and hearing and contains accurately the whole statement made, or evidence given, as the case may be, by the accused person who shall sign or attest by his mark such record; and if he refuses, the court shall add a note of his refusal, and the record may be used as if he had signed or attested it.

Evidence and address in defence

214. (1) Immediately after complying with the requirements of section 213 relating to the statement or evidence of the accused person, and whether the accused person has or has not made a statement or given evidence, the magistrates' court shall ask him whether he desires to call witnesses on his own behalf.

(2) The magistrates' court shall take the evidence of any witnesses called by the accused person in like manner as in the case of witnesses for the prosecution, and every such witness, not being merely a witness to the character of the accused person, shall be bound by recognisance to appear and give evidence at the trial of such accused person.

(3) If the accused person states that he has witnesses to call, but that they are not present in court, and the magistrates' court is satisfied that the absence of such witnesses is not due to any fault or neglect of the accused person, and that there is a likelihood that they could, if present, give material evidence on behalf of the accused person, the magistrates' court may adjourn the inquiry and issue process, or take other steps, to compel the attendance of such witnesses, and on their attendance shall take their depositions and bind them by recognisance in the same manner as witnesses under subsection (2).

(4) In any preliminary inquiry under this Part the accused person or the advocate or other person defending him shall be at liberty to address the court-

(a) after the reading over of the statements of witnesses in accordance with the provisions of section 209(1)(b) or the examination of witnesses called on behalf of the prosecution in accordance with the provisions of section 210, as the case may be;

(b) if no witnesses for the defence are to be called, immediately after the statement or evidence of the accused person;

(c) if the accused person elects-

(i) to give evidence or to make a statement and witnesses for the defence are to be called, or

(ii) not to give evidence or to make a statement, but to call witnesses, immediately after the evidence of such witnesses.

(5) If the accused person or the advocate or other person defending him addresses the court in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (a) or (c) of subsection (4) the prosecution shall have the right to reply.

Magistrates' court to record defence with witnesses' names, etc.

215. Where the accused person reserves his defence, or at the conclusion of any statement in answer to the charge or evidence in defence, as the case may be, the magistrates' court shall ask him whether he intends to call witnesses at the trial, other than any whose evidence has been taken under the provisions of this section, and, if so whether he desires to give their names and they may be summoned; and the magistrates' on record the names and addresses of any such witnesses whom he may mention.

Discharge of accused person

216. If, after consideration of the statements of witnesses tendered in accordance with the provisions of section 209 (1) (b) or, in the case of an inquiry conducted in accordance with the provisions of section 210, at the close of the case for the prosecution, as the case may be, or after hearing any evidence in defence, the magistrates' court considers that the case against the accused person is not sufficient to put him on his trial, the magistrates' court shall forthwith order him to be discharged as to the particular charge under inquiry; but such discharge shall not be a bar to any subsequent charge in respect of the same facts:

Provided always that nothing contained in this section shall prevent the court from proceeding, either forthwith, or after such adjournment of the inquiry as may seem expedient in the interest of justice, to investigate any other charge upon which the accused person may have been summoned or otherwise brought before it, or which, in the course of the investigation of the charge so dismissed as aforesaid, it may appear that the accused person has committed.

Power to apply to High Court for committal in certain cases where accused person discharged

217. (1) In any case where a magistrates' court discharges an accused person on a preliminary inquiry the court shall, if required to do so by the Attorney-General, transmit forthwith to him the record of the proceedings, including the statements of any witnesses read over in accordance with the provisions of section 209(1)(b) or certified copies or translations thereof, and if the Attorney-General on considering the case shall be of the opinion that the accused person ought not to have been discharged he may apply to the High Court for a warrant for the arrest and committal for trial of the accused person; and if the High Court shall be of the opinion that the case, as presented before the magistrates' court, was sufficient to put the accused person on his trial, he may issue a warrant for the arrest of the accused person and for his committal to prison for trial, there to be kept until discharge in due course of law or admitted to bail; and any person so proceeded against shall be further prosecuted in the same manner as if he had been committed for trial by the magistrates' court which discharged him, and for the purposes of the other provisions of this Code the said magistrates' court shall be deemed to have committed him for trial.

(2) An application under the preceding subsection may not be made after the expiry of 6 months from the date of discharge.

(3) For the purpose of taking recognisance under section 220, the magistrates' court shall have in relation to any person required to be bound over under the section aforesaid all the powers vested in the court for compelling the attendance of witnesses.

(4) The person in charge of a prison shall inform any person committed to such prison under the provisions of subsection (1) of his rights under sections 222 and 223, and notwithstanding the other provisions of this Code, the magistrates' court shall not be required so to inform him.

Committal for trial

218. (1) If the magistrates' court considers the case against the accused sufficient to put him on his trial, the court shall commit him for trial to the High Court and shall, until the trial, either admit him to bail or send him to prison for safe-keeping; and the warrant of such first-named court shall be sufficient authority to the officer in charge of any prison appointed for the custody of prisoners committed for trial.

(2) In the case of a corporation the court may, if it considers the case against the accused corporation sufficient to put the accused corporation on trial, make an order authorising the Attorney-General or such person as he may appoint to file an information against such corporation, and for the purposes of this Code any such order shall be deemed to be a committal for trial.

(3) In the case of an inquiry conducted in accordance with the provision of section 209 the court after committing the accused person for trial to the High Court shall allow him to plead to the charge against him and shall record his plea thereto, if any.

Summary adjudication

219. If, at the close of or during the inquiry, it shall appear to the magistrates' court that the offences is of such a nature that it may suitably be dealt with under the powers possessed by the court, the court may, subject to the other provisions of this Code, hear and finally determine the matter and either convict the accused person or dismiss the charge:

Provided that in every such case-

(i) if the inquiry was conducted in accordance with the provisions of section 209, the witnesses of the prosecution shall be called and the evidence of each of them taken in the manner provided in Part V, and the accused person shall be entitled to cross-examine them upon such evidence; or

(ii) if the inquiry was conducted in accordance with the provisions of section 210, the accused person shall be entitled to have recalled for cross-examination or for further cross-examination all witnesses for the prosecution whom he may require to be recalled.

Complainant and witnesses to be bound over

220. (1) When the accused person is committed for trial before the High Court, the magistrates' court committing him shall-

(a) if the accused person has been committed for trial upon an inquiry conducted in accordance with the provisions of section 209, summon the witnesses whose statements have been read over to the accused person in accordance with the provision of section 209 (1) (b) and bind by recognisance, with or without sureties, as it may deem requisite, every witness called for the defence to appear at the trial to give evidence and also to appear and give evidence at any further examination concerning the charge which may be held by direction of the Attorney-General:

Provided that if after his committal for trial to the High Court at such inquiry the accused person has pleaded "guilty" to the charge against him, it shall not be necessary to summon or bind such witnesses unless the court be requested so to do either by the Attorney-General or by the trial judge; or

(b) if the accused person has been committed for trial upon an inquiry held in accordance with the provisions of section 210, bind by recognisance, with or without sureties as it may deem requisite, the complainant and every witness to appear at the trial to give evidence and also to appear and give evidence at any further examination concerning the charge which may be held by direction of the Attorney-General.

(2) Nothing in subsection (1) (a) shall be construed to prevent an accused person who has pleaded "guilty" when allowed to plead in accordance with section 218 (3) from altering that plea to one of "not guilty" when he appears for trial before the High Court.

Refusal to be bound over

221. If a person refuses to enter into a recognisance on being required to do so in accordance with the provisions of section 220, the court may commit him to prison or into the custody of any officer of the court, there to remain until after the trial, unless in the meantime he enters into a recognisance; and if afterwards, from want of sufficient evidence for other cause, the accused is discharged, the court shall order that the person imprisoned for so refusing be also discharged.

Accused person entitled to copy depositions and statements

222. A person who has been committed for trial before the High Court shall be entitled at any time before the trial to have, without payment, a copy of the statements of witnesses read over in accordance with the provisions of section 209 (1) (b) or, in the case of an inquiry held in accordance with the provisions of section 210, of the depositions, as the case may be, and the court shall at the time of committing him for trial inform the accused person of the effect of this provision.

Binding over of witnesses conditionally

223. (1) Where any person charged before a magistrates' court with an offence triable upon information before the High Court is committed for trial, and it appears to such magistrates' court, after taking into account anything which may be said with reference thereto by the accused person or the prosecutor, that the attendance at the trial of any witness whose statement has been read over in accordance with the provisions of section 209(1)(b) or who has been examined before it in accordance with the provisions of section 210, as the case may be, is unnecessary by reason of anything contained in any statement by the accused person, or of the statement or evidence of the witness being merely of a formal nature, the magistrates' court-

(a) may, in the case of a witness whose statement has been read over in accordance with the provisions of section 209(1)(b), notwithstanding the provisions of section 220(1)(a) (which requires the court to summon such a witness) refrain from summoning the witness; or

(b) may, in the case of any other witness, if such witness has not already been bound over, bind him over to appear at the trial conditionally upon notice given to him and not otherwise, or if the witness has already been bound over, direct that he shall be treated as having been bound over to appear only conditionally as aforesaid; and

(c) shall transmit to the High Court a statement in writing of the names, addresses and occupations of the witnesses who have not been summoned or who are, or who are treated as having been, bound over to appear at the trial conditionally.

(2) Where, in accordance with the provisions of subsection (1), a witness has not been summoned or has been, or is to be treated as having been, bound over conditionally to appear at the trial, the Attorney- General or the person committed for trial may give notice at any time before the opening of the sessions of the High Court to the committing magistrates' court and at any time thereafter to the Registrar of the High Court that he desires the witness to attend at the trial and the court or Registrar to whom the notice is given shall forthwith summon the witness to appear at the trial or not him that he is required so to appear in accordance with his recognisance.

(3) The magistrates' court shall, on committing the accused person for trial, inform him of his right to require the attendance at the trial of any such witness as is referred to in subsection (2) and of the steps he must take for the purpose of enforcing that attendance.

(4) Any documents or articles tendered or produced as exhibits in the magistrates' court by any witness whose attendance at the trial is stated to be unnecessary in accordance with the provisions of this section and marked as exhibits shall, unless in any particular case the magistrates' court otherwise orders, be retained by the magistrates' court and forwarded with the statements of the witness read over in accordance with the provisions of section 209(1)(b) or the depositions, as the case may be, to the Registrar of the High Court.

Taking the depositions of persons dangerously ill

224. Whenever it appears to any magistrates' court that any person dangerously ill or hurt and not likely to recover is able and willing to give material evidence relating to any offence triable by the High Court, and it shall not be practicable to take the deposition in accordance with the provisions of this Code of the person so ill or hurt, such magistrates' court may take in writing the statement on oath or affirmation of such person, and shall subscribe the same, and certify that it contains accurately the whole of the statement made by such person, and shall add a statement of its reason for taking the same, and of the date and place when and where the same was taken, and shall preserve such statement and file it for record.

Notice to be given

225. If the statement relates or is expected to relate to an offence for which any person is under a charge or committal for trial, reasonable notice of the intention to take the same shall be served upon the prosecutor and the accused person, and if the accused person is in custody he shall be brought by the person in whose charge he is, under an order in writing of the magistrates' court, to the place where the statement is to be taken.

Transmission of statements

226. If the statement relates to an offence for which any person is then subsequently committed for trial, it shall be transmitted to the Registrar of the High Court, and a copy thereof shall be transmitted to the Attorney-General or to such person as he may appoint.

Transmission of statements

Use of statement in evidence

227. Such statement so taken may afterwards be used in evidence on the trial of any person accused of an offence to which the same relates, if the person who made the statement be dead, or if the court is satisfied that for any sufficient cause his attendance cannot be procured, and if reasonable notice of the intention to take such statement was served upon the person (whether prosecutor or accused person) against whom it is proposed to be read in evidence, and he had or might have had, if he had chosen to be present, full opportunity of cross-examining the person making the same.

Transmission of records to High Court and Attorney General

228. In the event of a committal for trial, the written charge, the statements of witnesses read over in accordance with the provisions of section 209 (1) (b), the depositions, the statement (if any) of the accused person the summonses or recognisances, as the case may be, of the complainant and of the witnesses, the recognisances of bail (if any), and any documents or things which have been tendered or produced as exhibits and marked as such, shall be transmitted without delay by the committing court to the Registrar of the High Court, and an authenticated copy of such statements and depositions and of the statement (if any) of the accused person shall be supplied to the Attorney-General by the Registrar.

Power of Attorney-General to direct further investigation

229. If, after receipt of the authenticated copy of the statements and depositions provided for by the last preceding section and before the trial before the High Court, the Attorney-General is of opinion that further investigation is required before such trial, the Attorney-General may direct that the original statements and depositions be remitted to the court which committed the accused person for trial, and such court may thereupon reopen the case and deal with it in all respects as if such person had not been committed for trial as aforesaid; and if the case be one which may suitably be dealt with under powers possessed by such court, it may, if thought expedient by the court, be so tried and determine accordingly.

Powers of Attorney-General as to additional witnesses

230. If, after receipt of the authenticated copy of the statements and depositions as aforesaid and prior to the trial before the High Court, the Attorney-General is of the opinion that there is, in any case committed for trial, any material or necessary witness for the prosecution or the defence who has not been bound over to give evidence on the trial of the case, the Attorney-General may require the magistrates' court which committed the accused person for trial to take the deposition of such witness and compel his attendance either by binding over or by summons or by warrant as hereinbefore provided.

Return of depositions with a view to summary trial

231. If, prior to the trial before the High Court, the Attorney-General is of the opinion, upon the record of the committal proceedings received by him, that the case is one which may suitably be tried by a magistrates' court, he may cause the statements and depositions to be returned to the court which committed the accused, and thereupon the case shall be reopened, tried and determined in the same manner as if such person had not been committed for trial:

Provided that in every such case-

- (i) if the inquiry was conducted in accordance with the provisions of section 209, the witnesses for the prosecution shall be called and the evidence of each of them taken in the manner provided in Part V, and the accused person shall be entitled to cross-examine them upon such evidence; or

(ii) if the inquiry was conducted in accordance with the provisions of section 210, the accused person shall be entitled to have recalled for cross-examination or further cross-examination all witnesses for the prosecution whom he may require to be recalled.

Filing of information

232. (1) If, after receipt of the authenticated copy of the statements and depositions as aforesaid, the Attorney-General is of the opinion that the case is one which should be tried upon information before the High Court, an information shall be drawn up in accordance with the provisions of this Code, and when signed by the Attorney-General shall be filed in the registry of the High Court.

(2) In any such information the Attorney-General may charge the accused person with any offence which, in his opinion, is disclosed by the statements and depositions either in addition to, or in substitution for, the offence upon which the accused person has been committed for trial.

Notice of trial

233. The Registrar of the High Court shall endorse on or annex to every information filed as aforesaid, and to every copy thereof delivered to the officer of the court or police officer for service thereof, a notice of trial, which notice shall specify the particular sessions of the High Court at which the accused person is to be tried on the said information, and shall be in the following form, or as near thereto as may be-

"A.B.

Take notice that you will be tried on the information whereof this is a true copy at the sessions of the High Court to be held at
on theday of, 19.."

Copy of information and notice of trial to be served

234. The Registrar shall deliver or cause to be delivered to the officer of the court or police officer serving the information a copy thereof with the notice of trial endorsed on the same or annexed thereto, and, if there are more accused persons committed for trial than one, then as many copies as there are such accused persons; and the officer of the court or police officer aforesaid shall, as soon as may be after having received the copy or copies of the information and notice or notices of trial, and 3 days at least before the day specified therein for trial, by himself or his deputy or other officer, deliver to the accused person or persons committed for trial the said copy or copies of the information and notice or notices, and explain to him or them the nature and exigency thereof; and when any accused person shall have been admitted to bail and cannot readily be found, he shall leave a copy of the said information and notice of trial with someone of his household for him at his dwelling-house or with someone of his bail for him, and if none such can be found, shall affix the said copy and notice to the outer or principal door of the dwelling-house or dwelling-houses of the accused person or of any of his bail:

Provided always that nothing herein contained shall prevent any person committed for trial and in custody at the opening of or during any sessions of the High Court from being tried thereat, if he shall express his assent to be so tried and no special objection be made thereto on the part of the Crown.

Return of service

235. The officer serving the copy or copies of the information and notice or notices of trial shall forthwith make to the Registrar a return of the mode of service thereof.

Postponement of trial

236. (1) The High Court, upon the application of the prosecutor or the accused person, if the court considers that there is sufficient cause for the delay, may postpone the trial of any accused person to the next sessions of the court held in the district or some other convenient place, or to a subsequent sessions, and respite the summonses or recognisances of the complainant and witnesses, in which case the respited summonses or recognisances shall have the same force and effect as fresh summonses or recognisances to prosecute and given evidence at such subsequent sessions would have had.

(2) The High Court may give such directions for the amendment of the information and the service of any notices which the court may deem necessary in consequence of any order made under subsection (1).

Information by Attorney-General

237. All informations drawn up in pursuance of section 232 shall be in the name of and (subject to the provisions of section 69) signed by the Attorney-General, and when so signed shall be as valid and effectual in all respects as an indictment in England which has been signed by the proper officer of the court in accordance with the Administration of Justice (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1933.

Form of information

238. Every information shall bear date of the day when the same is signed, and, with such modifications as shall be necessary to adapt it to the circumstances of each case, may commence in the following form-

THE QUEEN v. A. B.

In the High Court of the Gilbert Islands

At the sessions holden at.....in the Gilbert Islands on the day of....., 19.....

INFORMATION BY THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

A.B. is charged with the following offence (or offences)-

PART VIII

PROCEDURE IN TRIALS BEFORE THE HIGH COURT ON INFORMATION

Practice of High Court in its criminal jurisdiction

239. Subject to the provisions of this Code and of any rules of court the practice of the High Court in its criminal jurisdiction shall be assimilated so far as circumstances admit to the practice of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice in its criminal jurisdiction and of Courts of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery in England.

Pleading to information

240. (1) The accused person to be tried before the High Court upon an information shall be placed at the bar unfettered, unless the court shall see cause otherwise to order, and the information shall be read over to him by the Registrar or other officer of the court, and explained if need be by that officer or interpreted by the interpreter appointed by the court, and such accused person shall be required to plead instantly thereto, unless, where the accused person is entitled to service of a copy of the information, he shall object to the want of such service, and the court shall find that he has not been duly served therewith.

(2) In the case of a corporation, the corporation may, by its representative, enter a plea in writing; and if either the corporation does not appear by representative or, although it does so appear, fails to enter any plea, the court shall cause a plea of "not guilty" to be entered.

(3) A representative for the purposes of this section need not be appointed under the seal of the corporation, and a statement in writing purporting to be signed by a managing director of the corporation, or by any person (by whatever name called) having or being one of the persons having the management of the affairs of the corporation, to the effect that the person named in the statement has been appointed as the representative of the corporation for the purposes of this section shall be admissible without further proof as prima facie evidence that that person has been so appointed.

(4) The provisions of this section shall have effect notwithstanding that the accused person or corporation, as the case may be, may already have pleaded to a charge alleging the commission of the same offence as that charged in the information before the High Court at an inquiry held in accordance with the provisions of section 208 into or concerning such offence.

Orders for amendment of information, separate trial, and postponement of trial

241. (1) Every objection to any information for any formal defect on the face thereof shall be taken immediately after the information has been read over to the accused person and not later.

(2) Where, before a trial upon information or at any stage of such trial, it appears to the court that the information is defective, the court shall make such order for the amendment of the information as the court thinks necessary to meet the circumstances of the case, unless, having regard to the merits of the case, the required amendments cannot be made without injustice; and all such amendments shall be made upon such terms as to the court shall seem just.

(3) Where an information is so amended, a note of the order for amendment shall be endorsed on the information, and the information shall be treated for the purposes of all proceedings in connection therewith as having been filed in the amended form.

(4) Where, before a trial upon information or at any stage of such trial, the court is of opinion that the accused may be prejudiced or embarrassed in his defence by reason of being charged with more than 1 offence in the same information, or that for any other reason it is desirable to direct that the accused should be tried separately for any 1 or more offences charged in an information, the court may order a separate trial of any count or counts of such information.

(5) Where, before a trial upon information or at any stage of such trial, the court is of opinion that the postponement of the trial of the accused is expedient as a consequence of the exercise of any power of the court under this Code, the court shall make such order as to the postponement of the trial as appears necessary.

(6) Where an order of the court is made under this section for a separate trial or for postponement of a trial-

(a) the procedure on the separate trial of a count shall be the same in all respects as if the count had been found in a separate information, and the procedure on the postponed trial shall be the same in all respects as if the trial had not commenced; and

(b) the court may make such order as to admitting the accused to bail, and as to the enlargement of recognisances and otherwise as the court thinks fit.

(7) Any power of the court under this section shall be in addition to and not in derogation of any other power of the court for the same or similar purposes.

Quashing of information

242. (1) If any information does not state, and cannot by any amendment authorised by the last preceding section be made to state, any offence of which the accused has had notice, it shall be quashed either on a motion made before the accused pleads or on motion made in arrest of judgment.

(2) A written statement of every such motion shall be delivered to the Registrar or other officer of the court by or on behalf of the accused and shall be entered upon the record.

Procedure in case of previous conviction

243. Where an information contains a count charging an accused person with having been previously convicted of any offence, the procedure shall be as follows-

(a) the part of the information stating the previous conviction shall not be read out in court, nor shall the accused be asked whether he has been previously convicted as alleged in the information, unless and until he has either pleaded guilty to or been convicted of the subsequent offence;

(b) if he pleads guilty to or is convicted of the subsequent offence, he shall then be asked whether he has been previously convicted as alleged in the information;

(c) if he answers that he has been so previously convicted, the judge may proceed to pass sentence on him accordingly; but if he denies that he has been so previously convicted, or refuses to or does not answer such question, the court shall then hear evidence concerning such previous conviction:

Provided, however, that if upon the trial of any person for any such subsequent offence such person shall give evidence of his own good character, it shall be lawful for the public prosecutor or advocate for the prosecution, in answer thereto, to give evidence of the conviction of such person for the previous offence or offences before a verdict is returned and the court shall inquire concerning such previous conviction or convictions at the same time that they inquire concerning such subsequent offence.

Plea of "not guilty"

244. Every accused person upon being arraigned upon any information, by pleading generally thereto the plea of "not guilty", shall, without further form, be deemed to have put himself upon the country for trial.

Plea of autrefois acquit and autrefois convict

245. (1) Any accused person against whom an information is filed may plead-

(a) that he has been previously convicted or acquitted, as the case may be, of the same offence; or

(b) that he has obtained the Queen's pardon for his offence.

(2) If either of such pleas are pleaded in any case and denied to be true in fact, the court shall try whether such plea is true in fact or not.

(3) If the court holds that the facts alleged by the accused do not prove the plea, or if it finds that it is false in fact, the accused shall be required to plead to the information.

Refusal to plead

246. If any accused person being arraigned upon any information stands mute of malice, or neither will, nor by reason of infirmity can, answer directly to the information, the court, if it thinks fit, shall order the Registrar or other officer of the court to enter a plea of "not guilty" on behalf of such accused person, and the plea so entered shall have the same force and effect as if such accused person had actually pleaded the same; or else the court shall thereupon proceed to try whether the accused person be of sound or unsound mind, and, if he shall be found of sound mind, shall proceed with the trial, and if he shall be found of unsound mind, and consequently incapable of making his defence, shall order the trial to be postponed and the accused person to be kept meanwhile in safe custody in such place and manner as the court thinks fit, and shall report the case for the order of the Governor.

The Governor may order such accused person to be confined in a mental health wing, prison, or other suitable place for safe custody.

Plea of "guilty"

247. If the accused pleads "guilty" the plea shall be recorded and he may be convicted thereon.

Proceedings after "plea of not guilty"

248. If the accused pleads "not guilty", or if a plea of "not guilty" is entered" in accordance with the provisions of section 240 or 246, the court shall proceed to try the case.

Power to postpone or adjourn proceedings

249. (1) If, from the absence of witnesses or any other reasonable cause to be recorded in the proceedings, the court considers it necessary or advisable to postpone the commencement of or to adjourn any trial, the court may from time to time postpone or adjourn the same on such terms as it thinks fit for such time as it considers reasonable, and may by warrant remand the accused to some prison or other place of security.

(2) During a remand the court may at any time order the accused to be brought before it.

(3) The court may on a remand admit the accused to bail.

Opening of case for prosecution

250. The public prosecutor or advocate for the prosecution shall open the case against the accused person, and shall call witnesses and adduce evidence in support of the charge.

Additional witnesses for prosecution

251. (1) No witness who has not given evidence at the preliminary inquiry shall be called by the prosecution at any trial unless the accused person has received reasonable notice in writing of the intention to call such witness.

(2) The notice shall state the witness's name and address and the substance of the evidence which he intends to give.

(3) The court shall determine what notice is reasonable, regard being had to the time when and the circumstances under which the prosecution became acquainted with the nature of the witness's evidence and determined to call him as a witness.

Cross-examination of witnesses for the prosecution

252. The witnesses called for the prosecution shall be subject to cross-examination by the accused person or the advocate or other person defending him, and to re-examination by the public prosecutor or advocate for the prosecution.

Deposition may be read as evidence in certain cases

253. (1) Where any person has been committed for trial for any offence, the deposition of any person taken before the committing magistrates' court may, if the conditions hereinafter set out are satisfied, without further proof be read as evidence on the trial of that person, whether for that offence or for any other offence arising out of the same transaction, or set of circumstances, as that offence.

(2) The conditions referred to in subsection (1) are the following-

(a) the deposition must be the deposition either of a witness whose attendance at the trial is stated to be unnecessary in accordance with the provisions of section 223 or of a witness who is proved at the trial by oath of a credible witness to be absent from the Gilbert Islands or dead or insane, or so ill as not to be able to travel, or to be kept out of the way by means of procurement of the accused or on his behalf, or to be unable to attend for any other sufficient cause;

(b) the deposition must purport to be signed by the magistrates' court before which it purports to have been taken.

(3) The provisions of this section shall not have effect in any case in which it is proved-

(a) that the deposition was not in fact signed by the magistrates' court by which it purports to have been signed; or

(b) where the deposition is that of a witness whose attendance at the trial is stated to be unnecessary as aforesaid, that the witness has been duly notified that he is required to attend the trial.

Deposition of expert witness may be read as evidence

254. The deposition of a surveyor or of an analyst or geologist employed in the public service or of a medical practitioner, taken and attested by a magistrates' court in the presence of the accused person, may, with the consent of the accused person or his advocate, be read as evidence although the deponent is not called as a witness:

Provided that the court may, if it thinks fit, summon and examine such deponent as to the subject-matter of his deposition.

Statement of accused

255. The statement or evidence (if any) of the accused person duly recorded by or before the committing magistrates' court, and whether signed by the accused person or not, may be given in evidence without further proof thereof, unless it is proved that the magistrates' court purporting to sign the statement or evidence did not in fact sign it.

Close of case for prosecution

256. (1) When the evidence of the witnesses for the prosecution has been concluded, and the statement or evidence (if any) of the accused person before the committing court has been given in evidence, the court, if it considers that there is no evidence that the accused or any one of several accused committed the offence, shall, after hearing, if necessary, any arguments which the public prosecutor or advocate for the prosecution or the advocate or other person defending him may desire to submit, record a finding of not guilty.

(2) When the evidence of the witnesses for the prosecution has been concluded, and the statement or evidence (if any) of the accused person before the committing court has been given in evidence, the court, if it considers that there is evidence that the accused person, or any one or more of several accused persons, committed the offence, shall inform each such accused person of his right to address the court, either personally or by the advocate or other person defending him, to give evidence on his own behalf, or to make an unsworn statement, and to call witnesses in his defence, and in all cases shall require him or the advocate or other person defending him to state whether it is intended to call any witnesses as to fact other than the accused person himself; and upon being informed thereof, the judge shall record the same.

(3) If an accused person says that he does not mean to give evidence or make an unsworn statement, or to adduce evidence, then the advocate for the prosecution may sum up the case against such accused person.

(4) If an accused person says that he means to give evidence or make an unsworn statement, or to adduce evidence, the court; shall call upon such accused person to enter upon his defence.

The defence

257. The accused person or the advocate or other person defending him may then open his case, stating the facts or law on which he intends to rely, and making such comments as he thinks necessary on the evidence for the prosecution; and the accused person may then give evidence on his own behalf and he or the advocate or other person defending him may examine his witnesses (if any), and after their cross-examination and re-examination (if any) may sum up his case.

Additional witnesses for the defence

258. The accused person shall be allowed to examine any witness not previously bound over to give evidence at the trial if such witness is in attendance; and if he apprehends that any such witness will not attend the trial voluntarily, he shall be entitled to apply for the issue of process to compel such witness's attendance:

Provided that no accused person shall be entitled to any adjournment to secure the attendance of any witness unless he shows that he could not by reasonable diligence have taken earlier steps to obtain the presence of the witness.

Evidence in reply

259. If the accused person adduces evidence in his defence introducing new matter which the public prosecutor or advocate for the prosecution could not have foreseen, the court may allow the advocate for the prosecution to adduce evidence in reply to rebut the said matter.

Prosecutor's reply

260. If the accused person, or any one of several accused persons, adduces any evidence, the public prosecutor or advocate for the prosecution shall subject to the provisions of section 143 be entitled to reply.

Where accused adduces no evidence

261. If the accused person says that he does not mean to give or adduce evidence and the court considers that there is evidence that he committed the offence, the public prosecutor or advocate for the prosecution shall then, subject to the provisions of section 143, sum up the case against the accused person and the court shall then call on the accused person personally or by his advocate or other person defending him to address the court on his own behalf.

Decision

262. (1) Subject to section 177 when the case on both sides is closed the judge shall then give judgment.

(2) if the accused person is convicted the judge shall pass sentence on him according to law.

Calling upon the accused

263. If the accused person is convicted, or if the accused person pleads guilty, it shall be the duty of the Registrar or other officer of the court to ask him whether he has anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him according to law, but the omission so to ask him shall have no effect on the validity of the proceedings.

Motion in arrest of judgment

264. (1) The accused person may, at any time before sentence, whether on his plea of guilty or otherwise, move in arrest of judgment on the ground that the information does not, after any amendment which the court has made and had power to make, state any offence which the court has power to try.

(2) The court may, in its discretion, either hear and determine the matter during the same sitting, or adjourn the hearing thereof to a future time to be fixed for that purpose.

(3) If the court decides in favour of the accused he shall be discharged from that information.

Sentence

265. If no motion in arrest of judgment is made, or if the court decides against the accused person upon such motion, the court may sentence the accused person at any time during the session.

Power to reserve decision on question raised at trial

266. The court before which any person is tried for an offence may reserve the giving of its final decision on questions raised at the trial, and its decision whenever given shall be considered as given at the time of trial.

Power to reserve decision on questions arising in the course of trial

267. (1) When any person has, in a trial before the High Court, been convicted of an offence, the judge may reserve for further consideration any question which has arisen in the course of the trial, and the determination of which would effect the event of the trial.

(2) If the judge reserves any such question, the person convicted shall, pending the decision thereon, be remanded to prison, or if the judge thinks fit, be admitted to bail; and upon such further consideration of the question so reserved the judge may affirm or quash the conviction.

Objections cured by verdict

268. No judgment shall be stayed or reversed on the ground of any objection, which if stated after the information was read over to the accused person, or during the progress of the trial, might have been amended by the court, nor for any informality in swearing the witnesses or any of them.

Evidence for arriving at proper sentence

269. The court may, before passing sentence, receive such evidence as it thinks fit, may, order to inform itself as to the sentence proper to be passed.

PART IX

APPEALS FROM MAGISTRATES' COURTS AND CASES STATED

Appeal to High Court

270. (1) Save as hereinafter provided, any person who is dissatisfied with any judgment, sentence or order of a magistrates' court in any criminal cause or matter to which he is a party may appeal to the High Court against such judgment, sentence or order:

Provided that no appeal shall lie against an order of acquittal except by, or with the sanction in writing of, the Attorney-General.

(2) When a person convicted on trial by a magistrates' court is not represented by an advocate he shall be informed by the court of his right of appeal at the time when sentence is passed.

(3) An appeal may be on a matter of fact as well as on a matter of law.

(4) For the purposes of this Part the extent of a sentence shall be deemed to be a matter of law.

(5) The Attorney-General shall be deemed to be a party to any criminal cause or matter in which the proceedings were instituted and carried on by a public prosecutor.

Limitation of appeal on plea of guilty and in petty cases

271. (1) No appeal shall be allowed in the case of an accused person who has pleaded guilty and has been convicted of such plea by a magistrates' court, except as to the extent or legality of the sentence.

(2) Save with the leave of the High Court, no appeal shall be allowed in a case in which a magistrates' court has passed a sentence of a fine not exceeding $10 only, notwithstanding that a sentence of imprisonment has been passed by such court in default of the payment of such fine, if no substantive sentence of imprisonment has also been passed.

(3) No conviction or sentence, which would not otherwise be liable to appeal, shall be appealable merely on the ground that the person convicted is ordered to find security to keep the peace

Appeal to be by way of petition

272. (1) Subject to the provisions of any rules of court every appeal shall be in the form of a petition in writing signed by the appellant or his advocate and shall be presented to the magistrates' court from the decision of which the appeal is lodged within 14 days of the date of the decision appealed against:

Provided that the magistrates' court or the High Court may, at any time, for good cause, enlarge the period of limitation prescribed by this section.

(2) For the purposes of this section and without prejudice to its generality "good cause" shall be deemed to include-

(a) a case where the advocate engaged by the appellant was not present at the hearing before the magistrates' court and for that reason required further time for the preparation of the petition;

(b) any case in which a question of law of unusual difficulty is involved;

(c) a case in which the sanction of the Attorney-General is required by virtue of section 270.

Form and contents of petition

273. (1) Every petition shall contain in a concise form the grounds upon which it is alleged that the magistrates' court from the decision of which the appeal is lodged has erred.

(2) If the appellant is not represented by an advocate the petition may be prepared by or under the directions of the magistrates' court.

(3) If the appellant is in prison custody and is not represented by an advocate the petition may be prepared by the officer in charge of the prison and forwarded by him to the magistrates' court.

(4) Additional grounds of appeal may be filed by leave of the High Court at any time not later than 3 days before the date fixed for the hearing of the appeal in accordance with section 276.

(5) Where 2 or more persons have been jointly tried and convicted and their interests do not conflict one petition of appeal may be presented on behalf of all of them:

Provided that in such case the High Court may hear the appeals separately or together as seems just.

(6) Except by leave of the High Court it shall not be lawful for the appellant on the hearing of the appeal to allege or give evidence on any ground of appeal not included in the petition or in the additional grounds, if any, filed under subsection (4).

(7) If the case is one which requires the leave of the High Court under section 271 the application for leave to appeal shall be endorsed on the petition.

(8) For the purpose of considering or preparing a petition of appeal a person entitled to appeal or his advocate or an officer in charge of a prison shall be entitled to peruse the original record of the proceedings at such time as the clerk of court or the magistrates' court may allow.

Petition to be forwarded to the High Court

274. Upon receiving a petition of appeal the magistrates' court shall forthwith forward the petition of appeal together with the record of the proceedings to the Registrar of the High Court.

Summary dismissal of appeal

275. (1) When the High Court has received the petition of appeal and the record of proceedings a judge shall peruse the same.

(2) Where an appeal is brought on the grounds that the decision is unreasonable or cannot be supported having regard to the evidence or that the sentence is excessive and it appears to the judge that the evidence is sufficient to support the conviction and that there is no material in the circumstances of the case which could raise a reasonable doubt whether the conviction was right or lead him to the opinion that the sentence ought to be reduced, the appeal may, without being set down for hearing, be summarily dismissed by an order of the judge certifying that he has perused the record and is satisfied that the appeal has been lodged without any sufficient ground of complaint.

(3) Whenever upon perusal of the grounds of appeal and record it appears to the judge that the appeal ought to be allowed, the appeal may, without being set down for hearing, be summarily allowed if the respondent gives notice in writing to the judge to the effect that he does not intend to oppose the appeal.

(4) Whenever an appeal is summarily dismissed or allowed, notice of such dismissal or allowance shall forthwith be given by the Registrar of the High Court to the appellant or his advocate.

Notice of hearing

276. If the High Court does not dismiss the appeal summarily the Registrar shall-

(a) enter the appeal for hearing;

(b) serve a notice of hearing on the parties;

(c) supply the respondent with a copy of the petition and a copy of the judgment or order appealed against;

(d) except when the appeal is against sentence only, supply the respondent with a copy of the proceedings;

(e) where additional grounds of appeal are filed by the appellant under the provisions of section 273 (4), serve notice on the respondent of such filing and supply the respondent with a copy of the document containing such additional grounds of appeal.

Admission to bail or suspension of sentence pending appeal

277. (1) Where a convicted person presents or declares his intention of presenting a petition of appeal the High Court or the court which convicted such person may, if in the circumstances of the case it thinks fit, order that he be released on bail, with or without sureties, or if such person is not released on bail shall, at the request of such person, order that the execution of the sentence or order against which the appeal is pending be suspended pending the determination of the appeal:

Provided that if such order be made before the petition of appeal is presented and no petition is presented within the time allowed the order for bail or suspension shall forthwith be cancelled.

(2) Where the appellant is released on bail or the sentence is suspended, the time during which he is at large after being so released or during which the sentence has been suspended shall be excluded in computing the term of any sentence to which he is for the time being subject.

(3) An appellant whose sentence is suspended but who is not admitted to bail shall during the period of such suspension be treated in like manner as a prisoner awaiting trial.

Costs

278. The High Court may make such order as to the costs to be paid by either party to an appeal as may seem just.

Discontinuance of appeal

279. (1) An appellant may by giving notice in writing to the Registrar of the High Court discontinue his appeal at any time before the date of hearing and, upon such discontinuance and without prejudice to the power of the High Court to make an order for costs, no further steps shall be taken in the appeal, and the magistrates' court may proceed to enforce the decision appealed from.

(2) The Registrar of the High Court shall send to the respondent a copy of the notice of discontinuance.

Powers of High Court

280. (1) At the hearing of an appeal the High Court shall hear the appellant or his advocate, if he appears, and the respondent or his advocate, if he appears, and the High Court may thereupon confirm, reverse or vary the decision of the magistrates' court, or may remit the matter with the opinion of the High Court thereon to the magistrates' court, or may make such other order in the matter as to it may seem just, and may by such order exercise any power which the magistrates' court may have exercised:

Provided that the High Court may, notwithstanding that it is of opinion that the point raised in the appeal might be decided in favour of the appellant, dismiss the appeal if it considers that no substantial miscarriage of justice has actually occurred.

(2) At the hearing of an appeal the High Court may, if it thinks that a different sentence should have been passed, quash the sentence passed by the magistrates' court and pass such other sentence warranted in law (whether more or less severe) in substitution thereof as it thinks ought to have been passed.

(3) The High Court may at any stage adjourn the hearing of an appeal.

Further evidence

281. (1) In dealing with an appeal from a magistrates' court the High Court, if it thinks additional evidence is necessary, may either take such evidence itself or direct it to be taken by a magistrates' court.

(2) When the additional evidence is taken by a magistrates' Court, such court shall certify such evidence to the High Court, which shall thereupon proceed to dispose of the appeal.

(3) Evidence taken in pursuance of this section shall be taken as if it were evidence taken at a trial before a magistrates' court.

Order of the High Court to be certified to lower court

282. (1) When a case is decided on appeal by the High Court, it shall certify its judgment or order to the court by which the judgment, sentence or order appealed against was recorded or passed.

(2) The court to which the High Court certifies its judgment or order shall thereupon make such orders as are conformable to the judgment or order of the High Court, and shall take such steps as may be necessary to enforce such judgment or order.

Right of appellant to be present

283. An appellant, notwithstanding that he is in custody, shall be entitled to be present, if he desires it, at the hearing of the appeal.

Revision by High Court to be certified to lower Court
